Climate Change and The North Shore

What does climate change mean for our area—what can we expect, and what can we do about it? Please join international climate expert and University of Illinois professor emeritus Dr. Don Wuebbles for a discussion of the U.N. Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change 2021 Report and its implications for the North Shore.

Dr. Wuebbles led a 2019 assessment of climate change on the Great Lakes and co-led a 2021 special assessment of the impacts of climate change on the state of Illinois. He was a coordinating lead author for the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change that shared in the 2007 Nobel Peace Prize.

Co-sponsored by the Glencoe Sustainability Task Force and the Friends of the Green Bay Trail. VIRTUAL.

ANTOIN SEVRUGUIN: A 19TH CENTURY ARMENIAN-IRANIAN PHOTOGRAPHER

Wednesday, December 8, at 7:00 p.m. FRIENDS SPONSORED

Late nineteenth-century Iran was a cultural crossroads at which traditional Iranian society was encountering Western technologies and influences. Capturing it was Armenian-Iranian photographer Antoin Sevruguin (ca. 1851–1933), whose striking work is highlighted in a current exhibit at the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago. Although he was the official photographer to the Muslim court in Teheran, Sevruguin's status as a member of the Armenian Christian minority gave his work an outsider's perspective. His beautiful and unusual images, informed by his training as a painter, captured all aspects of Iranian life at a key moment of transition.

Tasha Vorderstrasse, the curator of the exhibit Antoin Sevruguin: Past and Present, will provide a slide lecture on the photographer's work and legacy. She is the university and continuing education program coordinator at the Oriental Institute and received her PhD in near eastern archaeology from the University of Chicago in 2004.

The exhibit will be on display at the Oriental Institute through December 31.

VIRTUAL.

ALL ABOUT CRYPTOCURRENCY

Thursday, December 9, at 7:00 p.m.

Are Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies the first wave of a cashless future—or just an overhyped technology? One thing is certain: there's a lot of money riding on their success. Tech guru Michael Gershbein will discuss the underlying blockchain technology behind Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies as well as online currency exchanges, digital wallets, and the various challenges and opportunities facing these currencies.

CLASSIC FILM APPRECIATION: THE SEVENTIES

Thursdays, 1:00–2:30 p.m.

January 13: Chinatown

January 20: The Conversation

The 1970s was a time of questioning all our institutions and a time of seeking our identity—as a country and as individuals. Nowhere was the decade's spirit more evident than in the cinema. Hollywood responded to the turbulent times with anti-heroes and strong women; conspiracy thrillers and vigilante films; and indies and personal filmmaking. Francine J. Sanders, film scholar and writer, returns to lead discussions of two iconic films from the American New Wave.

STUDY BREAK LOUNGE

Saturday, January 15–Wednesday, January 19

Study break lounge is BACK! Stake out a spot in the spiffed-up Forte Room, reserve the lower-level Hamil conference room, or find a quiet place anywhere else in the building. There will be grab-n-go bags filled with some essentials (highlighters, pencils, note cards, stress balls, and phone chargers). Masks must be worn; food and drink are not currently allowed in the library. Good luck with finals!

JACOB LAWRENCE: THE SERIES PAINTINGS

Monday, January 17, at 7:00 p.m.

Between 1940 and 1941, artist Jacob Lawrence produced 60 paintings on the Great Migration. Split today between the collections of the Museum of Modern Art in New York and the Phillips Collection in Washington, D.C., the paintings document an important period in American and African American history. Art historian Jeff Mishur will discuss Lawrence's migration series and other examples of his series work.

Winter Programs for Adults

LESLIE GODDARD AS LOUISA MAY ALCOTT

Wednesday, January 26, at 7:00 p.m.

Meet Louisa May Alcott, the beloved author whose books made her one of America's most famous writers. Actress and historian Leslie Goddard returns to portray Alcott in a program that draws from Alcott's diaries, books, and letters to bring the passionate, humorous, and progressive author to life. IN-LIBRARY EVENT. Online registration required.

BIG BOOKS: THINGS FALL APART

FRIENDS
SPONSORED

Tuesdays, 7:00–8:30 p.m.

February 1, 8, and 15

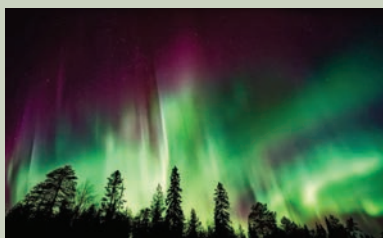

Over three weeks, Big Books will tackle Things Fall Apart, Chinua Achebe's classic narrative about Africa's cataclysmic encounter with Europe as it establishes a colonial presence on the continent. The discussions will be guided by returning leader Joseph Alulis.

FIRE IN THE SKY: SECRETS OF THE EARTH'S AURORAE

Wednesday, February 9, at 7:00 p.m.

Seen as scintillating curtains and swaths of light in the night sky, the aurora borealis (or northern lights) are most readily visible in the far north and far southern regions of Earth (the "southern lights" are called the aurora australis). Occasionally, a space weather event will cause the aurora to be visible as far south as the continental United States. Dr. Shane Larson, research associate professor of astronomy at Northwestern University and associate director of CIERA, returns to discuss what causes these fantastic displays of lights, what the colors mean, and why they are always changing.

GARDENING THE NEW PERENNIALIST WAY: A PIET OUDOLF STORY

Thursday, March 3, at 7:00 p.m.

Learn about the principles that guide the work of Piet Oudolf, the naturalistic landscape and garden designer, through the personal research of landscape design consultant Deborah Chud. She'll discuss Oudolf's plant combinations, his ideas around garden structure, and how his work balances coherence and contrast.

Greener Living

E-CARS AND SOLAR

Tuesday, February 15, at 7:00 p.m.

The widespread adoption of electric vehicles and solar power are critical to meeting carbon reduction goals in the next decade. What does the future look like for these industries? What hurdles do they face in attaining mass adoption, and how is the industry addressing those hurdles? Presented by Sam Sperling, a former Tesla analyst and current product manager at Sila Nanotechnologies, and by Josh Lutton, founder of solar consulting firm Certasun. Cosponsored with the Glencoe Sustainability Task Force.

Staff and Friends

Meet the Staff

SHIRA COHEN

After working for ten years as a library assistant in a synagogue, I decided to pursue my passion for books and readers' advisory and earn a degree in library science. Before landing at the Glencoe Public Library, I administered psychometric tests at a neurology clinic, tutored kids in Hebrew and psychology, planned author events, facilitated book club discussions, filmed craft videos, and even led storytimes!

My favorite part of my job as an adult services librarian is to help patrons find their next great read and to use my creativity toward displays and reading programs.

When I am not working, I enjoy trying new recipes. Sometimes I fail terribly, but that's part of the process, right? I also enjoy watching films and shows in different languages. When the weather is nice, you will find me taking walks and snapping nature photos.

My favorite literary genre is historical fiction. I enjoy reading and listening to audiobooks, and if the book is exceptional the characters leap out of the book and stay in my thoughts long after I am done reading. I would love to talk to you about books, shows, and films during your next visit.

Friends' Corner

Programs and classes sponsored by the Friends.

BOOK DONATIONS ACCEPTED AS OF DECEMBER 6

After a long, pandemic-necessitated break, the Friends will again be able to receive your donated books, DVDs, and CDs starting Monday, December 6. Please place your donations in the donation bins by the library's front door. Thank you for holding onto your materials until we could take them! We are hoping very much to have a winter sale. Stay tuned!

LATEST GIFTS TO THE LIBRARY

In August, the Friends voted to support the library's subscription to the Kanopy streaming service; Study Break Lounge; winter reading clubs for adults and young adults; the fall Big Books series on Vanity Fair; and Visiting Professor lectures.
